COPYRIGHT STATEMENT

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted materials including foreign works under certain conditions. In addition, the United States extends protection to foreign works by means of various international conventions, bilateral agreements, and proclamations.

Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a photocopy or other reproduction. One of these specified conditions is that the photocopy or reproduction is not to be "used for any purpose other than private study, scholarship, or research." If a user makes a request for, or later uses, a photocopy or reproduction for purposes in excess of "fair use," that user may be liable for copyright infringement.

The Columbia University Libraries reserve the right to refuse to accept a copying order if, in its judgement, fulfillment of the order would involve violation of the copyright law.

PREFACE

It has been found impossible in the space of one volume to include all the notes and transcriptions which have been prepared from the Archives of Lydd.

There remain to be published if sufficient support is given to this edition, a transcription of the "Custumal," further Chamberlains' Accounts, many interesting Wills (including those of several who figure in these pages), and other matter which has been collected.

Of that presented here, the greater part of the Chamberlains' Account Book, has been transcribed and translated by Mr. Hussey, to him I am also indebted for the translation of the Charter of Edward III., for the Index, and for much help throughout.

The Churchwardens' Accounts are entirely transcribed by Miss M. M. Hardy, who has also done much valuable work in transcribing other documents for future publication.

This volume is not issued entirely in the interest of Lydd history, but, also with the hope that it may be an incentive to other towns to publish their Records. In many cases, although preserved with the greatest care they are as much lost to this generation as if they did not exist. I would especially refer to those of Romney which are of the utmost value and probably more complete than any remaining among the archives of the Cinque Ports and their Members.

On a long wide irregular coast of shingle and sand stretching from beyond Folkestone almost to Fairlight, there were probably hardy seafarers and traders settled before recorded times, attracted by the rich fishing grounds and convenient havens.

This foreshore formed a natural outwork of sea defence. It was broken in places through which the tides ebbed and flowed and meeting the waters from the uplands gradually shallowed and silted up the large bay behind it, to become the district now known as the Marsh.

How and when Dungeness began its important obtrusion seaward is not known. It has been thought the commencement may have been from artificial sea defence work causing lodgement of shingle. But the rapid growth of the Point has been the great factor in all the many and interesting changes which have here occurred.

Lydd probably owes its name to the Romans who found a considerable settlement of people on the "Littus," or Sea Shore; while upon the Ripae or Banks (now the East and West Rypes) the Town laid its early foundation. In Saxon times its name became "Hlida," and in those days (about A.D. 774) a considerable grant of land at Lydd was made by King Offa to Archbishop Jaenbeht. From thence forward the Archbishop of Canterbury became its over-Lord.

It is stated that the same Archbishop granted the Rypes to the Barons of Lydd in reward for their valour against the Danes.* Stone End, a mile east of Lydd, marked the boundary of the land of the Archbishop's gift. Near this it is said was a heap of stones called the Tomb of Saints Crispin and Crispinianus. Hasted suggests probably the name of a Roman family, the Crispini, who held government in this part of the country, originated the tradition.

* A battle was fought between the Saxons and the Danes at the Wick and Holmstone. Dunge-Ness or Naze means Danger Cape. All names of Danish origin. (Isaac Taylor.)

In 904 the Men of Kent fought with the Danes at Holme and were victorious. (Chronicle Roger of Hoveden).

An interesting old seal of the Archbishop with a mitre upon it is still existing and has always been used by the Corporation of Lydd for transactions with regard to this particular land.

About this period a Saxon Church was built, a portion of which is still to be seen incorporated in the north wall of the present Church.

Lydd is not mentioned in Domesday Book but only the Hundred of Lamport in which it is situated. This name, afterwards became Langport, and two of the principal of the six Manors in the Parish are called Old and New Langport.

Probably the twelfth and early thirteenth centuries saw this and the adjacent towns in their highest state of trade and importance. Upon the east was the flourishing Cinque Port of Romney, separated from Lydd by a large tidal haven through which the river "Rother" reached the sea; while on the coast line to the west were Broomhill and the first Winchelsea. Immediately inland to the west and north-west had become a rich tract of country probably largely cultivated for grain, which could be shipped from the "Camera" (harbour—hence Camber) or the Wainway (Wagon Road) Creek, at Broomhill.

At this period the two most important families in Lydd were the Septvans (or de Septem Vannis), and the Derings. The name of the former had very many corruptions and is written Setvans, Seavans, Septuans, etc. It has been said they took their name from a place called Septvents (Seven Winds) in Normandy, but may we venture to think that the "Septem Vannis" (seven winnowing fans) on their coat of arms denoted their very large corn-growing interest in this locality where in Lydd and Broomhill they owned much land? They had their seat at Septvan Court a mile west of Lydd, and to them is attributed the planting of the Holly curiously growing on the shingle called the Holmstone—now only bushes but at one time large trees in which was a heronry.*

The Derings had seats at Dengemarsh Place and at Westbroke. One of this family, Richard Dering, was taken from his mansion at Dengemarsh into France and only freed by a large ransom. A brass to his memory in the Church has unfortunately disappeared. Both families seem to have moved from Lydd at about the same time, the Septvans to Ash, near Sandwich, and the Derings to Surrenden,

* The third Robert de Septvans died in 1249 and was buried at Lydd (Corner of Kent, by T. N. Planché).

Pluckley, curiously coinciding with the period of the great storms which caused inundation of thousands of acres of the Western part of the Marsh.

The growth of Dungeness had a ruinous effect upon this district. While it shielded and preserved intact the town of Lydd, it robbed the shores both east and west of their supply of shingle. The natural western rampart became so denuded that at length by successive storms it was broken down. We first read of their severity in 1236. In 1250 great damage was done, and in 1287 both Broomhill and Winchelsea were completely destroyed, the inhabitants of the former town seeking refuge in Lydd.* The fertile arable marsh lands adjacent were thus laid waste for probably a century; afterwards to be reclaimed by much labour and to become pasture land. Probably the diminution of the population through the black death delayed this work.

Lambarde says that in 1334 a terrific storm destroyed over three hundred mills and housings in the Marsh.†

Lydd had as appurtenances Orwaldstone (which appears to have included Westbroke, Part of Midley and Belgar) and Dengemarsh, in its parish, and became subject to Romney as a member of that town and port in or before the reign of Henry I.

CHARTERS AND DEEDS.

The Charter of Edward I. has disappeared. The earliest now existing is that of 38 Edward III. (1364) of Inspeximus and Confirmation (a facsimile of which forms the frontispiece of this book) confirming the Charter of Edward I. to the Barons of Lydd and Ingemareys called by Professor Burrows the Palladium of the Cinque Ports Liberties.

Others are 1st Richard II. (1378) also confirming that of Edward I. An Inspeximus Charter of 13th Richard II. (1390) confirming a Charter of Edward III., who thereby confirmed a Charter granted to the Cinque Ports 26th Edward I. (1298) * Broomhill Church was afterwards recovered and the Church-lands wall built. Repairs to its fabric are mentioned in Wills of the 16th century.

† An illustration of the changes at this period in the contour of the Marsh may be noticed at Fairfield, where the Church now stands surrounded by swamps and water. This is an early wooden Church, bricked up in later days, and was built when the land around was level and dry. The inundation of the sea at this period and the vast accumulation of water which could no longer pass out through Romney, necessitated a great building of sea walls here, the material for which was dug out near and around the site of this Church. The Eastern and North Eastern parts of the district (Romney Marsh proper) escaped by the protection of the Great Rhea Wall and the natural good sea-full of shingle then existing on its coast.

and exemplification thereof for the men of Lydd and Ingemareys. A Charter 1st of Henry IV. (1400) confirming Edward I. Charter to the Barons of Lyde and Ingemareys. A Charter 1st Henry V. (1413) in confirmation of the Great Charter of Edward I. (extracted by John Wakeryng, the then Master of the Rolls, and John Thoraby). A Charter 2nd Henry V. 1415. A Contemporary Copy of Charter 4th Edward IV. (1464), reciting the rights of the Cinque Ports in times of Edward I. and William the Conqueror. Portions of the great seal in wax are attached to several of these Charters.

Among existing Deeds, are: A Parchment Document dated 1386 having reference to a Plaint by the Barons of Lyde to the Prior of Bilsington with regard to the carrying off of cattle.

An Indenture of Lease dated 1411, John Thomas and others, tenants of the Archbishop, to Nicholas Norton.

A similar Indenture dated 1439 to John Gerard.

Will of William Melale dated 1456.

Indenture dated at Romney, June 9th, 1487, containing the composition between the towns to settle their "strifes, controversies and debates" concerning the 5th penny: Lydd to provide one out of every five ships required to be furnished by Romney, etc.

Letter by Sir Edward Guldeford Constable, of Dover Castle Warden and Admiral of the Five Ports dated 1528 to the Bailiff, Lords, and Commons, of Lydd, refers to the fishmarket at the "Stade" of the Nesse and orders the Statute 10, Edward IV. to be enforced against West country fishermen who pay nothing to its maintenance, etc., etc.

Various Receipts from the Combarons, Jurats and Commoners of Romney for the annual contribution from Lydd from 1531 and on to later dates.

The earliest Town Accounts preserved to us—later called the Chamberlains' Accounts—date from 1428 and are here fully translated and transcribed. They show the important position of this Town in mediæval times. We can weave stories and enter into the life of those days as we read the quaint and interesting entries recorded by the various Common Clerks. The writers in this book were William Elis, William Leycroft, Thomas Caxton, Robert Lucas, William Nycolle and James Bate. After some notes the accounts commence with the pious exhortation "Assit principio Sancta Maria meo." Many of the pages have the heading "Jesu" written over them as at the beginning of the book.

The entries are interspersed with copies of Wills, Deeds and various Memoranda often not in chronological sequence, but the items of income and expenditure have been transcribed to follow in correct order. The Meetings at which Accounts were presented, and the officials of the Town appointed, at first appear to have been taken quite irregularly. Eventually from 1476 they were held on the Feast of St. Mary Magdalene, upon which day also the churchwardens were elected and begin and end their accounts. The Bailiff is not mentioned at the earlier Meetings. Probably he was at first appointed by the Archbishop, and he is sometimes called Bailiff or Constable. The Jurats or sworn men were elected for Lydd and Dengemarsh separately, but later the officials were appointed in more regular form, the Bailiff elected, and the Jurats as all for Lydd.*

The principal owner of Dengemarsh besides the Lord Archbishop, was the Abbot of Battle; others being Christ Church, Canterbury, and the Castle of Rochester.

The income of the Town was chiefly provided from the Scots which were freely levied, distress being taken from those who could not pay; other sources of income were Poll Tax, Fines, Maltots (sums paid on commodities for sale), Lyvelode (Income Tax), tolls on the marketing of fish, etc.

The expenditure upon gifts to those in office or authority were many and most quaint in their variety—of Fish, Flesh and Fowl—from eels to porpoises—with wild ducks, swans, herons, lambs, etc., etc. These were sent to those from whom the Town desired favour, or dreaded reprisals; even we may fear sometimes to turn the scales of justice! The hospitality too of the ancient Town must have been almost proverbial. For those whom it desired to honour every luxury was provided. Wandering troops of jesters, minstrels, and players, were frequently here. Among these, the Boy Bishop of St. Nicholas from New Romney was an annual visitor; while players from that Town and from Rucking, Wytstom, Herne, Hamme, Rye, etc., etc., with minstrels and jesters of the King and of the great Lords—the Dukes of Somerset and Buckingham, Lord de Bouchier, Lord Fiennes, Earl of Warwick, Duke of York, Lords Arundel, Exeter, Shrewsbury, Earl of Pembroke, some of whom it was doubtless good policy for the Town to entertain, were represented.

* (October 29th, 1475). It was agreed that "John Kempe shall occupy the office of Bailiffhode and that same unto the Feast of St. Mary Magdalene (July 22nd, 1476), and then shall be elected for another year." (F. 25).

Lydd's own special plays were "St. George," and the interlude of our Lord's Passion. The Town seems to have been quite leading in talent for Romney sends a man to see "the original of our play there," and gives twenty shillings to the Lydd players for their performance.

Other visitants who broke the monotony, were the man who showed the Dromedary, receiving eight pence; later in the accounts a reward is paid to one who brought here an Ape, and a "Bear Ward" travels through with the King's bears. True to sporting instincts, wrestling was patronised by the Jurats and Commons, wrestling collars were bought, and they officially visited Brookland to see and reward one, Cok, of Sandwich, wrestling on a Sunday there. The youths of the Town were urged to cease from dice and tennis playing, and to practise at the butts.

The Festival of the Watch of St. John's Eve, and St. Peter's, were kept with candles burning in the common house, and good cheer abounding. Watch fires were lighted upon the sea-shore, and watch was kept on the Church steeple against the coming of the French. Cries of proclamation were made at the Church Style to warn men to drive in cattle and swine* from the fields for fear of marauders. From time to time soldiers were quartered on the Town and there were frequent broils and disturbances. The bribes paid to remove the soldiery are entered with unblushing frankness. We must not omit a payment to the Mayor of Canterbury on behalf of our pilgrims visiting the shrine of St. Thomas in the Cathedral there, and the circumspection shown in sending his wife a "quarte of Malmesyn." (P. 170).

The Town from its common fund had the responsibility of providing corn at Christmas and Easter for the poor, and gifts were made to lepers.

There are entries from 1480 to 1485 of Goderynge's daughter "Poor Maid," being supplied with hosen, shoes, kertyl cloth, her keep, etc. In 1485 was paid to the poor man for the poor child, 12d. Even a thief's daughter was supplied with a pair of schone (shoes) costing 3d., notwithstanding the heavy expense caused by her father's imprisonment of over eleven weeks terminating with the payment to the hangman, 8d. and for two halters 3d.

The Common Chest was available for the pecuniary needs of the inhabitants who were trustworthy, such as Thomas Dygon, to whom were lent five marks when he went to the North Sea, which he faithfully returned with interest, modestly calculated at ten per cent., while to William Bate (with two sureties) was advanced the sum of nine pounds (perhaps equal to £120 of our money to-day).

The all important duty of providing ships was the principal public expense of the Cinque Ports and their Members. In this Lydd bore its share and many interesting entries may be read of the costs incurred. To fulfil its complement we find Lydd hiring vessels from Brittany, Sandwich, London, etc., manning and victualling them, such as for the voyage of the King 1430-31. To Flanders, 1437. To Guisnes Castle 1438. One entry is for the hire of the ship "Le Ruge Cule," of Brittany for the voyage to bring over the Lady Margaret (Marguerite of Anjou) "who will be Queen of England, into England, 1440." Also against the French in the North Sea in 1457, and on many other occasions. One entry runs "Paid to Robert Houghe for brynggyng our Maynye a borde before the Lorde of Warwykes Persone, there havyn grete thonkes 6/8."

Many entries occur referring to the guns of the Town which were from time to time dragged to the seaside to the "Ness," or the "Goote," where there were orders for the strict observance of the watch by the boatmasters and their men. "Yf any of the said Maisters Lakke at his wache, and no manne there for hym he to be amerced at 12d. and every other of the maynye (crews) at 6d. and that mercement lloyd to goo to the reperacion of the gunnys at the seid Nesse." (P. 281).

A very interesting account is given of the Town making its own great gun the "Serpentyne," (P. 175), a type so called because bound round with metal. There are several entries of gun stones being purchased, or stone to make them, purchases also of gunpowder on various occasions.

Many and varied expenses were incurred over the Common House later called the Court House. A portion of the original building near to which was the Church Style, still remains.

We have in review in this book the period of the Wars of the Roses (1455-1485). Payments were made for the support of the Town's contingent fighting under the Earl of March in the campaign which closed at Towton in 1461, and the expenses incurred during the Wars pressed heavily upon the inhabitants.

Lydd contributed the fifth penny of the wages of the Member of Parliament for Romney. Its "Custumal" was kept there, and frequently had to be referred to until the present copy was written by Caxton in 1476. The Officers of the Town had to present themselves and their accounts yearly before the Jurats there.

Struggling to free itself from Romney, together with the over-rule of the Archbishop, and frequent difficulties with the Abbot of Battle, as to boundaries and the rights of the sea-shore, kept Lydd for many years in a perpetual state of unrest and anxiety. Again and again the salary of Thomas Caxton, secured as Common Clerk, the most astute lawyer of the countryside—was raised, so that the best skill should be given to the Town's affairs. Frequent journeys to London, Canterbury, and other places of the Counsel for the Town, and other Officers, are mentioned.

Thomas Caxton, possibly the brother of William Caxton the printer, and who stands out in these pages as the most important man of business of his time, was a native of Tenterden, where his conduct of a case between that town and Rye probably brought him into notice. He entered the service of Lydd in 1458 at an annual salary of £2 13s. 4d., double that of his predecessor, with a new gown each year, afterwards raised to £4 a year, a sum only paid in those days by the most important towns for such services. After his resignation as Clerk here he was constantly employed on various business for the Town, or for negotiation with the King. In 1470 when Lydd with weak diplomacy sent men to fight under Warwick, and then paid troops to help King Edward, thus, in difficulties on every side, Caxton was appointed Treasurer, and two years later Bailiff with a Town Clerk of his own training put under him. He was in 1474, Clerk to Romney but returned to Lydd in 1476. Afterwards he filled the office of Clerk to Sandwich the then most important Cinque Port. He died in 1495, and was buried in the churchyard of Lydd. His sons, John and Augustine were churchwardens of Lydd (see Churchwardens' Accounts). This name is sometimes written Causton. Thomas Caxton's will and others of his family will be published in a subsequent volume.

THE CHURCH.

From the early fifteenth century onward great alterations and additions were made to the Church. About this period it was lengthened and it was found necessary to tie-beam across the whole length of the Aisles to correct the subsidence which had occurred in the earlier work. The following in the Church has unfortunately disappeared:—Of your charitie pray for the Soul of Thos. att Bregge, who died on the Feast of St. Leonard the Confessor, November 6th, 1443; and did make the roof of this Church so far as 45 Copelings goeth which did cost him 45 marks. There is an entry in the accounts "received for the Torches burnt about the body of Thomas att Brege in part payment, 68/." Entries from 1442 onward refer to the building of the Church Tower, the bringing of stone from Hythe, Fairlight, and elsewhere and the purchase of other material, etc. Many of the Marsh Churches are built with sea-washed stone. There was a grant of wreck salvage made or given towards this expense as well as sums paid from the Corporate Funds.

Matters did not always go smoothly in Church affairs. It is recorded in 1435 that John Dyne smote the Vicar of Lydd, Mr. Love, and for the assault was put in the stocks from which he was released by his brother mariners. The affront was seriously dealt with. The nine Jurats with the commonalty were ordered to appear before the Archbishop of Canterbury, and William Leycroft, the common clerk, was summoned to Rome to answer for the offence. (P. 56).

Another trouble was caused by the opening of the love letter of Sir Reginald, Parish Priest here, by James Ayllewyn and others. (P. 128).

In 1447 the Town had much difficult litigation with Sir Andrew Ayllewyn, who appears to have had temporal as well as spiritual responsibilities in this Parish. He was Vicar of Broomhill, probably then a sinecure, and also called Vicar of Lydd, representing Cardinal Prosper Colonna, upon whom among other valuable emoluments were bestowed the tithes and Vicariate of this Parish. This condition of things was much resented and efforts were made to secure the appointment of Sir William Hebbenge as resident Vicar. It is difficult to follow the details but it is said Sir Andrew cost the Town £100 in "harms and scaths," and in connection with this quarrel, William Bette who had been sergeant was arrested in London and put in irons. We can imagine the relief which was felt when the Common Clerk was able to enter the expenses of 20 pence of the Constable, Jurats, and Commons, in James Ayllewyn's house, when Sir Andrew was there, and "took his leave and went towards Rome." A curious account must be noticed when in 1450-1, the Vicar of Lydd was "led" to Canterbury in custody to appear before the King. John Furmour Junior the Constable, with William Groce the Common Servant, were sent to meet there the Lieutenant, for Counsel and advice in the matter. Poor William's experience of the City's hospitality must have been disappointing for he appears to have been lodged a prisoner in Canterbury Castle. We read "he lost there his purse and his money therein, 6s. 8d. He lost there his sword, his dagger, a pair of boots and a pair of socks, price 4s. He paid there to the Master porter of the Castle for to get him his horse, his cloak, and his spurs again, 6s. 8d." (P. 147).

In those days, as in all times, there were men who by power of wealth tried to carry matters with a high hand. Such was James Ayllewyn (a near relative of the troublous Sir Andrew). His name appears early in these accounts. He was Bailiff in 1436-7, and for many years seems to have been a chief manager of town affairs. In 1446 he was in open conflict with the local authorities, taking the law in his own hands by the unusual course of suing, the Constable William Melale, and William Growte in the Court of the Lord Warden at Dover. It is gravely stated that "the same James reviled myssayd (slandered) and strangely rebuked divers sworn men with tedyous and odyous language, and also in drawing of his dagger against the King's peace some of them smote." The case against Ayllewyn seems to have been argued before the Lieutenant, and he was bound over in ten marcs of good money henceforward to observe the laws and customs of the town. (P.P. 109, 110).

The Godfrey Family took an active part in all business connected with the Town during the period of this account. They are called Godfrey or Fermour, and sometimes Fermour or Godfrey. The name Fermour may have originated, because they held to farm one or other of the large estates in the parish. John Fermour was Constable of Lydd 1449-51, and also Bailiff, and many others of this family held the latter office. For many centuries they occupied the highest position of any family in Lydd and its neighbourhood. Space does not here permit further reference, but it is hoped that many interesting details concerning them may be given in a later volume.

The Bate Family for more than 300 years were important in Lydd, and are first met with in this book in the person of William Bate, in 1429. Andrew Bate, a wealthy butcher of the place who also was the Farmer of Dengemarsh under the Abbot of Battle, seems to have been the founder of the fortunes of the family. He appears to have aroused very strong feeling in Lydd, and many pages are devoted to doubtless an exaggerated account of his extortion and oppression.

His traducers appear before the Authorities to substantiate their complaints against him, stating that his herds of cattle over-run their pastures and they are "grievously hurted," while his heavy tolls on the Western men who came to dry their fish at the "Ness," and his arbitrary treatment of all in this district of the Parish, so sorely distress them, that there are "wasted and put away from Dengemarsh seventy households and not eight men left to defend against the King's enemys." He also endeavoured to encroach on the Town lands and made needful in 1462 a definement of the boundaries. (P.P. 278, 279, 323). He was indeed the bête noire of Lydd for many years; but his wealth increased, and he was successful against every effort to supplant him. His brother, trained in the law under Caxton eventually became Common Clerk and manager of the business of Lydd, while Andrew was Bailiff in 1460-1. (P. 191). The index gives many others who filled this office. A numerous and influential branch of this family is settled in the United States of America.

JACK CADE'S REBELLION, 1450.

Lydd does not seem to have taken an active part in the Kentish rising under Jack Cade, "the Captain of the Oste" as he is called (P. 141), for among the pardons there is only the name of "Nich Tredehurst, Yoman" of this place; also there is one only of Romney, "John Kemp, Yoman," but in villages near, Stone, Wittersham, etc., we find the Lydd names of Godfrey, Aleyn, Rolfe, and others. The Lord Abbot of Battel, the largest landowner of Lydd, was a strong supporter of this rising, and we can understand the anxiety of the Town, sitting as it were on the fence, to come down the right side. John Fermour the Younger the Constable, rides to Assheforde to "Aspye tythings" (tidings) of the Captain. John Hayes is sent to carry a letter to the Captain "in excuse of this Town." We may imagine Fermour summoning his fellows and discussing what line to take. Men said at Assheforde that all the country was with the Captain, so it was thought at least politic to send a gift. A "Purpoys" is bought for six shillings, and a curious account of the various expenses of "leyding" it up to be formally presented to the Captain may be read. (P. 142). A possibly belated entry, "paid in expenses made over the Captain at Rypes End 10d.," occurring in 1451, may signify that Cade came to Lydd. (P. 150). The gruesome entry, "in expenses and gifts given to Gervase Clyfton's servant bringing hither the quarter of a man, 2s. 1d.," illustrates the method adopted in those days to overawe the rebellious. (P. 148).

It should have been mentioned earlier in these notes, that there were two Parish Clerks appointed, one for Lydd, and one for Dengemarsh its fishing station, where there was a considerable population. (P. 157). The payments of salary to them is frequently called their "Hervest." Whether this may refer to the collection of dues in kind, like the Tithe, or whether it is a term to signify their annual autumn ingathering of salary, is not clear. Memoranda 1466-7-8, refer to the appointment of Robert Lucas, his salary and duties. Among them was to carry Holy Water every Sunday to the Vicar of Lydd at his house, upon the payment of 1d.

In 1465-6. The Church afforded Sanctuary to Alexander Gray who was detained in custody for forty days, until Simon Etherick, whom he had wounded had recovered. (P. 342). John Davy is also mentioned as having similarly sought privilege of the Church.

From the index may be seen names of places in the parish and its neighbourhood as we know them to-day, but the "Newbygging," "Gorswall," "Hanpton's Cross," "Grygestrete," "le three Ellets" (three Aldar trees), cannot be localised.

Still living among us, are descendants of the families of Alayn, Bate, Cobb, Godfrey, Rolfe, and many others mentioned in this record.

Winchelsea is curiously called "Frigmarvent" (pp. 304-7-15). Can we derive this from the Latin frigidus mare ventus? "Paid John Hynsell and Herte going to "Frigmarvent" for the Wool Masse, 12d." Records of Winchelsea may explain what the "Wool Masse" was.

The final entry in this book is an interesting one, "the Veray content of Wages of Calais and the Marches, Anno. 1568," probably the date this account was copied and sent to the Cinque Ports.*

CHURCHWARDENS' ACCOUNTS.

The volume of Churchwardens' accounts of the Church of All Saints, Lydd, is of great interest. It is for the years 1520 to 1558, commencing annually on the Feast of St. Mary Magdalene (July 22nd). The Sunday after that day the Parishioners elected their Churchwardens. The receipts were chiefly from small rent of tenements and land; farm of sheep on Church lands, broken silver, bequests from parishioners, breaking the ground for burials in the Church or Churchyard, and money gathered in the Church on Sundays. There was also collected "Light Silver" by the Bailiff and Jurats at Christmas paid to the Churchwardens and used especially for candles for the Rood Loft and other parts of the Church, and for lights placed round the bodies of the dead. This Light Silver amounted to from £8 to £9 in the earlier part of the accounts. It was still collected after the Reformation "for the maintenance of the Church," but the amount gradually decreased.

The payments made each year include washing the ornaments, repairing vestments, watching the Easter Sepulchre, lighting the candles of the High Beam or Rood Loft, tolling the Ave Bell, keeping the clock, "Striking the High Beam" (i.e., re-making the candles for the Rood).

On All Souls' Day and the Sunday following 6d. 8d. was paid to Clerks, Priests and Poor People. The Churchwardens received 6s. 8d. for their wages.

There were frequent repairs to the bells, the clock, and the chimes.

The windows were a source of continual expenses. In 1520, John Causton, the eldest son of Thomas Caxton, the noted Town Clerk of Lydd, was paid 6d. for canvas and nails set over the windows "when the great wind was."

A new Porch was built in 1529-30. (P. 354). There were Porches on the north and south sides of the Church, taken down in the early part of the nineteenth century.

There was also a Vestry on the South side of the Chancel. It was in a bad state in 1535-6 and had to be shored up. The foundations and some of the lead of its roof in the walls can still be seen. The Nave and side Aisles of the Church were covered with shingles — pieces of oak twelve inches long and three inches wide. During the years of these accounts 38,000 were purchased. They were brought by water from Newenden to the Wainway Creek (the haven near Scotney). Large expense was incurred in the purchase of lead for the roofs and there are many entries of payments for men to blow at the furnace, for coal, and the plumbers' expenses in covering the High Chancel, and the chancels of Our Lady (the South) and of St. John the Baptist (the North).

There were also various internal repairs carried out in these two chancels, new seats, etc. In 1536-7. the Churchwardens received "of the gift of Thomas Strogull* the Warden of the Brotherhood of the Blessed Virgin Mary in the Church of Lydd, for the reparation of the Chancel of Blessed Mary there, 13s. 4d. (P. 375).

Lydd was remarkable for the number of its Guilds or Fraternities, that of the Holy Trinity was so important that the Church itself was in one official document erroneously stated to be dedicated to the Holy Trinity. The Fraternities here in the 15th and 16th centuries were of the Holy Trinity, All Saints, St. James, St. Peter, St. Mary, St. Catherine, St. John the Baptist, St. George, St. Barbara, St. Anthony, St. Mildred and St. Nicholas. Each of these had their own particular Altar and place of service in the Church. See Arch. Can., Vol. XIII.)*

The Chapels within the Church mentioned in these accounts are those of The Trinity and of St. Mildred.

Of the Images of various Saints entries refer to those of Allhallows, St. Christopher and St. George. The latter was the subject title of one of Lydd's principal Plays. In 1534-5, the Churchwardens received money gathered by the "Lords of Misrule," in Christmas time to the maintaining of the Light of St. George. (P. 371, 378.)

The organs have frequent mention both in these and in the Chamberlains' accounts. Repairs to the little organs and the great organs, tuning, etc. Father Cobbe was paid 8d. for mending the bellows of the Great Organ, and for glue. In 1522-3 a Frenchman was paid 20s. for mending two pairs of organs. Payments were made for sheep skins for the bellows and there are many other items. In 1522-3 the old Rood Loft was taken down, and a large outlay was made, extending over the next five years, in erecting one worthy of the Church. When completed it was probably of great magnificence. A stone stairway led up to it and several structural alterations were required to the walls and pillars to accommodate this. The traces of a door in the north wall show how it was entered from outside the Church. Belamy (the carver) was paid 20s. for his work and 6s. 8d. as a reward on its completion, and it was richly ornamented with gilding and painting.†

It is sad to read how the over-zeal of the Reformers caused the destruction and removal of this work upon which so much a few years before had been expended by pious worshippers.

* Wills of the period also mention Fraternities of the Holy Cross and the Mass of Jesus.

† The Chamberlains' Accounts of 1519 give the expenses of "the Bailiff and his brethren riding to take a pattern of the Roodloft in Canterbury," and in 1520 the Bailiff and others "riding with the carver to see in what condition the new Roodloft was the which was making."

These accounts have been ably epitomised by Mr. Hussey, and the following shows in detail the changes during the reformation period, and how on the accession of Queen Mary 1553, a replacement had to be hastily made.

SALE OF CHURCH GOODS:—

The Churchwardens during the year 1538-9 sold as follows:

An old pair of Organs, 4/10.

The silver shoes, called the Rood Shoes, 10/-

The silver Pix, called the Pardon, 30/-

One silver Chalice, gilt, 38/-

1539-40:—

One pair of Beads which was appertaining to Our Lady Brotherhood, 2/4.

A staff of St. James, 16d. (P. 380).

1547-8:—They receive for the goods of the Church, namely:

—Tabernacles, Images, Tables, Boards, Brass, Iron, Wax, Lead, Pewter, Old Hangings and Curtains, with divers other things by them sold this year, £7 0s. 7d. (P. 397).

William Barrow, the Town Clerk, sold for the Churchwardens for 16d. the portion of a certain board (tabula) of the Passion of Christ.

To Leonard Browne by two days' work to take down the Tabernacles and Images about the Church 8d., and for meat and drink to him and others helping to pluck down the Tabernacles 2/-. To men taking down the howses (sic) in the Rood Loft, 8d. Then they pay 8/9d. to Thomas Elys and his servant for pargeting and washing the walls of the Church by seven days and a half. (P. 398).

1548-9. They sell to Thomas Bellamy (who between 1520 and 1527 had carved their new Rood Loft) certain goods of the Church, viz.:—the carving work of the Rood Loft, 10/- (P. 399).

1549-50. They sold old brass 3/4d., a piece of timber 8d., an old desk 13d., and old chest 20d., (bought by Pett's wife), some old painted cloths 6/8d., and more old brass 4/-. P. 402).

1550-1. They sold carved boards 2/-. the Sepulchre 6/8d., two holy water sticks 20d., an old vestment 2/-. the Altar Stares 6/8d. They paid 6/8d. to Aton for the Table called the Lord's Table, and the charge thereunto.

1552-3. For the Great Bell sold to Partrege for £25 10s. 0d., the Churchwardens receive £17 10s. 0d. in part payment. They sell two old Vestments 6/8d., an old Cope 3/4d., an old Alb 4/2. (P. 406).

RE-PURCHASE OF CHURCH GOODS, ETC., 1553-8.

The Wardens having in obedience to orders sold most of the Church properties since 1547, were now required once more to buy them for use in their Church.

1553-4. They bought for 16d. timber to make the Sepulchre for Easter, and pay 10/- to Aton for four days' work with his men making the Sepulchre and Judas. Making the Altar cost 5/-, and spent about fitting the Altar stone 8d. Two cruets cost 13'd., and fetching them and other things from Rye 16d. From Partrege of Rye they bought a pair of Censers and a Pix 15/-. A Legend 16/8d.

The Antiphoner in 2 volumes was bought in London for 40/8d., the bringing of the same from Charing Cross to Paul's Churchyard 4d., carrying the Antiphoner from Paul's to New Fish Street 4d., and to a porter carrying the same to the rippers that brought them home, and to help truss the same 4d.

Also a Cross of laton and gilt 20/-

One holy water Stock 5/-

Two candlesticks for the Altar 5/-

A pair of cruets of pewter 16d.

For bringing to Romney all the said books and other things bought at London 4/-, and fetching them home to Lydd 2d. (P. 412).

1544-5 They buy 1,300 bricks for the side Altars 13/-, and pay Elyce for five days' work about the Altars 5/-, and to Hever for helping him 2/8d. Half a ton of timber bought for the High Altar cost 3/-. They pay Aton and his boy for eleven days' work about the making of the High Altar, in full payment of 18/8d., whereof paid by the Chamberlain 13/4, and the residue by the Churchwardens 3/4. A Crane for the Sacrament cost 16d. (P. 414).

1555-6. They buy for 5/- a Rood with Mary and John painted in cloth; and pay 4/6d. for setting up the holy water stoup, and other things, also 5d. for two dozen curtain rings for the Veil. A Processional in parchment cost 3/4d., the staining of two streamer cloths and two banner cloths 6/8d., four banner staves 2/8d., and for painting them 3/- (P. 416).

1556-7. Making the Cross for the Rood 4/4d., and staples for the Rood 6d., to Ellice and his boy for three days and a half white lyming the front of the Rood 2/2d., and two hooks to hang the cloth on the Rood 8d. The Image of Allhallows cost 23/8d., and making the Tabernacle 2/8d. A line for the Lamp, and the Sanctus Bell 12d.

1557-8. They paid to the painter for gold and colours 13/4d., and repay 13/4d. to Thomas Strogull for buying the same, and pay the painter 6/8d. when he went to London for gold and colours. They pay to Belamy, the carver, 6/8d. at the setting up of the Rood, and another 20/-

Much money was expended in purchasing wax for the many Lights in the Church, for the High Beam or Rood, and before the Images of Saints. There were also the special "Lights" of "Westbroke" and "Dengemarshe," and for the many Altars.

In 1538 no candles were to be placed before Images and Pictures. Those thereafter only allowed were on the Rood Loft, before the Sacrament, and before the Easter Sepulchre.

In 1547 no Lights were allowed except two upon the High Altar before the Sacrament.

The Jesu Mass so frequently mentioned was sung every Friday, and was well and liberally supported by the inhabitants. There was a Jesu Priest, and he was maintained by pious gifts of land, etc., so that these services were richly endowed.

The Bede roll was read each Sunday, to commend the memory of the souls of the Benefactors of the Church to the congregation.

Frequent mention is made of the reading of the Passion on the Rood on Palm Sunday, the choir and clerks being afterwards regaled with wine and bread.

In 1521-2 the Churchwardens were paid 13/11d. expenses at the first riding to Canterbury with the Jewels of the Church and 26/8d. on a second occasion. (P. 334).

In 1541-2. Some of the Jewels remaining were stolen from the Church, and expenses were incurred in endeavouring to trace and recover them at Hastings and in London, apparently without success. (P. 388).

From 1531-7 a great deal was spent in repairing the Church House, which seems to have been a building of considerable size—and there was a Church Stable.

There are curious items of payment for keeping the dogs out of the Church. One is, "Grates made abowte the Church to kepe owt the dogys."

The Hermit of Lydd, John Bate, is frequently mentioned, he paid a rent for Church Land, and apparently was closely associated with all Church work in his day. There was a chapel at his hermitage.

There were several purchases made of the pre-Reformation service books. In 1547 the Paraphrasis of Erasmus in English, as ordered, was bought and in 1552-33 the Book of Common Prayer, while in 1553-4 a Latin Mass Book and others had to be purchased.

In 1539-40 the Bible was procured, as ordered by Royal Proclamation to be set up in all Churches.

Archbishop Cranmer visited Lydd in 1535. "Itm paid to ryngers agenst my lord of Cauntberye cumyng and to one man watchyng for his cumyng 7d." (P. 373).

An entry 1538-9 mentions the first keeping of the Parish Register as required by Royal Injunction. (P. 382) The Lydd Register commences at this date but the first few years are a copy of the above.

A curious entry, July 1533, of the burial of a gipsy in the Church should be noted: "Itm recuyd of the gypcous for brekyng of the ground in the Church for one of their company 7s. 6d.," and "receuyd of the gypcous for the waste of wax, 18d. (P. 361).

These accounts end in 1558, the year of the death of Queen Mary and the accession of Queen Elizabeth. This change may have necessitated two visitations being held at Sellindge and two at Canterbury. (P. 422). In this year was bought a Book of Common Prayer, costing 4s.

The concluding pages are devoted to some memoranda relating to earlier accounts and references to some bequests to the Church. There is a recital of the purchase of land by Dr. Peter Ligham (a vicar of Lydd who died in 1538), from John Bate, the son of Iene (sic) John Bate—was this our friend the Hermit? (P. 425).

It will be observed how entirely at one were civil and ecclesiastical business in those days. The Churchwardens are sometimes mentioned as elected by the Bailiff and Jurats, and many items in the Chamberlains' Accounts are for expenditure upon the Church. Until recent times the annual election of the Bailiff and Jurats took place in the Church. The last meeting was in 1884, after which Lydd under its new charter became a Municipal Corporation, with a Mayor, Aldermen and Councillors. The great bell was always tolled before the meeting of the Bailiff's Court of Petty Sessions, and the Bailiff, Jurats, and Freemen, had their special seats as of old time, in the Church.

TRANSLATION OF CHARTER.

Edward by the grace of God, King of England, Lord of Ireland and Aquitaine, to the Archbishops, Bishops, Abbots, Priors, Dukes, Earls, Barons, Justices, Sheriffs, Provosts, Ministers, and to all Bailiffs and faithful subjects, greeting. We have seen the Charter of the Lord Edward late King of England, our grandfather, in these words:—"Edward by the grace of God, King of England, Lord of Ireland, and Duke of Aquitaine, to the Archbishops, Bishops, Abbots, Priors, Earls, Barons, Justices, Sheriffs, Provosts, Ministers, and to all faithful subjects, greeting. Know that We for the faithful service which our Barons of the Five Ports have hitherto rendered to our predecessors the Kings of England, and to us lately in our expedition to Wales, and for their service to us and our heirs the Kings of England faithfully to be continued in time to come, do grant and by this our Charter confirm for us and our heirs, to the same our Barons and their heirs, all their liberties and freedoms, so that they may be free from all toll and <sup>1</sup>customs, that is to say—from all <sup>2</sup>lestage, <sup>3</sup>tallage, <sup>4</sup>passage, quayage, <sup>5</sup>trivage, <sup>6</sup>sponsage, and all wreck, all <sup>7</sup>selling, buying, and rebuying through the whole of our land, and dominions, with <sup>8</sup>Sac and <sup>9</sup>Soc, <sup>10</sup>Thol, and <sup>11</sup>Theam, and that they may have <sup>12</sup>Ingfangthei, and may be <sup>13</sup>Wreckfree, <sup>14</sup>Wittefree, <sup>15</sup>Lastagefree, and <sup>16</sup>Lovecopfree, and that they may have Den and <sup>17</sup>Strond at Yarmouth, according to that which is contained in the ordinance by us therefor made and for ever to be observed. Also that they may be free of <sup>18</sup>Shires and Hundreds, so that if anyone shall wish to implead them, they should not answer or plead otherwise than they have been accustomed to plead, in the time of the Lord <sup>19</sup>Henry the King, our great-grandfather. And that they may have their treasure-troves in the sea and in the land, and may be free of all their goods and the whole of their merchandise as our free-men. Also they may have their honours in our Courts and their liberties throughout the whole of our land wheresoever they shall come. Also that they of all their lands which in the time of the Lord Henry the King, our father, that is to say in the 44th year of his reign (1260) they did possess, may be free for ever from all common summonses before our Justices itinerant, for all manner of <sup>20</sup>pleas in whatsoever counties their lands may be, so that they may not be bound to come before our Justices aforesaid, except any of their Barons implead any of them, or of any be impleaded, and that they shall not be impleaded elsewhere, but only where they ought to be and were accustomed, that is to say at Shipway. Also they may have the aforesaid liberties and freedoms decreed, as they and their ancestors ever have had them, better, more fully and honourably in the times of the Kings of England:—Edward, William the first and second, King Henry our great-grandfather, and King John our grandfather, and of the Lord Henry the King, our father, by their Charters as that Charter which the same our Barons thereof, have, and which we have seen and reasonably do testify. And we forbid that any one unjustly shall molest them or their merchandise, upon our forfeiture of £10. Provided however that when those Barons shall fail in justice to be done and received, our Warden and our heirs of the Five Ports, who for the time being shall have the Ports and their liberties, in default of the same, may enter to do full justice there. Provided also that the said Barons and their heirs do to us and our heirs the Kings of England their full yearly service of fifty-seven ships, according to their custom for fifteen days service to us and our heirs when summoned. We grant moreover to the same that they may have <sup>20</sup>utfrangthe in their lands within the aforesaid Ports, in the same manner as the Archbishops, Bishops, Abbots, Earls and Barons have in their Manors in the County of Kent; and that they may not be impressed in Assizes, Juries, or any sort of quest, by reason of their foreign tenure against their will; and that especially of their wines for which they trade, they may be free from our right of prisage, that it is say of one cask of wine before the mast and another behind the mast. Moreover, We grant to the same our Barons, for us and our heirs, that for ever they may have this liberty, that is to say, that we or our heirs shall not have the wardship, or the right of giving in marriage, of their heirs by reason of their lands which they hold within the aforesaid liberties and Ports, for which they do their service before mentioned; and of which we nor our ancestors have not had in past time, the wardship and the right of giving in marriage. And our aforesaid confirmation of the aforesaid liberties and freedoms, and our other grants following to them of our special grace have caused a new to be done, saving always in all things our royal rights and our welfare, to us and our heirs the pleas of our crown, life, and members. Wherefore we will ordain and undertake for us and our heirs, that the aforesaid Barons and their heirs for ever may have all the liberties and freedoms aforesaid, as the aforesaid Charters irrevocably witness; also that of our special favour they may have utfrangthe—in their lands within the aforesaid Ports, in the same manner as the Archbishops, Bishops, Abbots, Earls and Barons have in their Manors within the County of Kent, and that they may not be impressed in Assizes, Juries, or any other Quests by reason of their foreign (or outside) tenure, against their will, and that especially of their wine for which they do trade, they may be free from our right of prisage. That is to say one cask of wine before the mast and another behind the mast. And also in like manner they may have for ever the aforesaid liberty, that is to say, that we nor our heirs may not have the wardship or right of marriage of their heirs by reason of their lands which they hold within the liberties and Ports aforesaid, for which they do their beforementioned service, and of which we and our ancestors have not had the wardship and right of marriage in time past. Moreover our before said confirmation of the liberties and freedoms aforesaid, and our other grants following to them by our special favour a new have done, saving always in all things our royal-rights and welfare to us and our heirs, the pleas of our crown, life and members as is aforesaid. Witnesses—The venerable fathers, R. Bishop of Bath and Wells, A. Bishop of Durham, J. Bishop of Winchester, and J. Bishop of Ely; William de Valence our uncle, John de Warren Earl of Surrey, Henry de Lasey Earl of Lincoln, Robert de Sybetot, John de St. John, and others. Given by our hand at Westminster, the 12th day of February in the 18th year of our reign" (1290). We have also seen the Charter of the Lord Edward, late King of England, our father, in these words—Edward by the grace of God, King of England, Lord of Ireland, Duke of Aquitaine, to the Archbishops, Bishops, Abbots, Priors, Earls, Barons, Justices, Sheriffs, Provosts, Ministers, and to all Bailiffs, and his faithful subjects, greeting" We have seen also the Charter which the Lord Henry, formerly King of England, our ancestor, made to the Men of Lhida and Dingemarsch in these words:—"Henry, King of England, Duke of Normandy and Aquitaine, Earl of Anjou, to his Justices and Sheriffs and Ministers, both in England and Normandy, and the Sea Ports, Greeting. I enjoin that the men of the Archbishop of Canterbury of Lhida (Lydd) and Dingemarsch who do to me the fifth part of the Ship service with the men of Romney, should be as free of toll, passage, lestage, <sup>22</sup>werage, rivage, and all other customs and fines, as free as they have been in the time of King Henry our grandfather, and like as the men of Hastings are, and as they ought to be free, by reason of the customs of the Five Ports. Witnesses.—<sup>23</sup>Theobald, Archbishop of Canterbury, Thomas the Chancellor and Court of the King at Winchester." Also we have seen the Letters Patent which the Lord Edward, formerly King of England, our father, made to the Barons of the aforesaid Towns in these words:—"Edward by the grace of God, King of Scotland, Lord of Ireland, and Duke of Aquitaine, to all those whom this present Letter shall come; Greeting. Know that we have granted to our Barons of Lyde and Ingemarsch, who are members of our Port of Romney, that they and their heirs there dwelling, for ever should have the same liberties and free customs as our Barons of Romney and the other Barons of the Five Ports have by the Charters of our ancestors the Kings of England, and our confirmation. So that those Barons of Lyde and Ingemarsch and their heirs, should provide one Ship to the aforesaid Barons of Romney in subsidy to their service, as in like manner they do our service in our army when it is necessary to be summoned together. In witness whereof We have caused this our Letter Patent to be made. Witness ourself at Westminster, the 12th day of February in the 18th year of our reign" (1325). Moreover the grants and concessions aforesaid, having freely ratified them for us and our heirs, as much as in us is, to the aforesaid Men and Barons of Lyde and Ingemarsch, and their heirs and successors, We do grant and confirm them as by the Charters and aforesaid Letter, are irrevocably testified. Witnesses:—The venerable fathers, W. Bishop of Worcester, J. Bishop of Bath and Wells; W. Bishop of Exeter; Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Gloucester and Hertford; John de Brittany, Earl of Richmond; Adomar de Valence, Earl of Pembroke; Hugh le Despencer, Robert Fitz Pagan, Edmund de Mauley, Steward of our Household. Given by our hand at Westminster, the 26th day of July in the seventh year of our reign" (1313). We also the grants and confirmations aforesaid, having freely ratified them for us and our heirs, as much as in us is, unto the aforesaid Barons and Men of Lyde and Ingemarsch, their heirs and successors, for the good and faithful service to us and our ancestors to this present time, and to us and our heirs in time to come, We do ratify by the tenor of these presents, do grant and confirm, as the Charter and Letter aforesaid irrevocably testify and moreover willing the more fully to show favour to the aforesaid Barons and Men of Lyde and Ingemarsh, do grant for us and our heirs to the same Barons and Men that it shall be lawful to them, as to their ancestors, any or every liberty, custom or other freedom, in the said Charter and Letter contained, for some reason to this time have not been fully used, notwithstanding the same Barons and Men of the Town of Lyde and Ingemarsh, their heirs and successors, the customs and freedoms with the other aforesaid rights and every one of them, without occasion or impediment of us or our heirs or of our Ministers whatsoever, fully may enjoy and use for ever. Witnesses:—The venerable fathers, S. Bishop of Ely, Chancellor; J. Bishop of Bath and Wells, our Treasurer; John, Duke of Lancaster; Edmund, Earl of Cambridge, our well beloved sons; Humphrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford; Richard, Earl of Arundel; Thomas de Veer, Earl of Oxford, our Chamberlain; Edward le Despenser; John Atte Lee, the Steward of our Household, and others. Dated by our hand at Westminster, the 12th day of July, in the 38th year of our reign" (1364).

EXPENSES made divers time by the Constable and sworn-men about a matter unduly taken by James Ayllewyn at Dover, against William Melale our Constable and William Growte our Commoner, against our Customs and Usages used out of mind. The same Constable being at Dover divers times, and other sworn men with him, the which expenses come to 37s. 1d.

The which expenses forth [therefore] with the damages owing of right to be arered [set] against of (sic) the party plaintiff by the Constable and sworn-men what that any pay before the year not party [i.e., part] to the use and profit of all the Commons. And for this cause it ought so to be arered of right as much as the said James, plaintiff, ought of right by our customs to have complained him to the sworn-men of his greve [grief or grievance] of the forsaid William Melale, the Constable, and of William Growte, Commoner; the which he did not, but hedly by his own wilfulness sued him to Dover, against our customs and usages.

Also expenses made by the Constable and Sworn-men about the right of our Franchise, to us by our most excellent and Sovereign Lord the King granted, for divers matters and causes by James Ayllewyn taken and done against our Franchise in this wise as it followeth here, that is for to say. —That no man within the said Town shall make none arrest or tachment [attachment], nor no other execution do, but our Bailiff and Jurats, eythir ellys [either else] the ministers of our Lord the Warden for default of right and justice of the said Bailiff and Jurats doing and upon lawful process awarded.

WHERAS now late the same James reviled myssayd [i.e., slandered] and strangely rebuked divers sworn men with tedyous and odyous language; and also in drawing of his dagger against the Kings peace, some of them smote. And furthermore the said James standing none officer here, and no process afore, never unto us thereof directed nor awarded, took upon him and arrested one Jone Ivysshe, and put her into the Common Place, and there held her in prison a day and a night without any cause reasonable.

Also the said James took upon him to arrest divers goods here by the coast saved in whose hands that they come, the which arrests belongeth to us Bailiff and Jurats, by our said Lords commandment, and to no other man, but if it be for default of right of us doing; and thereupon lawful process awarded. The which injuries and wrongs we would not hastily put in execution for be cause of his great menasse [menace] on our Lord's behalf. But by counsel complained us to our Lieutenant of all these aforesaid injuries and grievance to us, by him unduly done. The which injuries and wrongs the Lieutenant considering syned [assigned] us a day to be here with us the 14th day of March that last was, for to have more knowledge of the matter aforesaid. And there the same day by him and by us Sworn-men all these aforesaid matters were ended, under this rule that followeth, that is for to say—the same James agreed him there to be bound in a requisition by record of our aforesaid Lieutenant Gervays Clifton and by record of the Bailiff and the Sworn-men. The which requisition is this—Thereby for the aforesaid record he bound him and all his goods and chattels where that ever they might be found within the aforesaid Town of Lydd, in ten marcs (£6 13s. 4d.) of good money that he from theke [this] day forward shall well and truly keep all due customs and usages, used and belonging to the aforesaid Town; and if so be that he do it nought [not], he wills and granteth by the aforesaid requisition, that it be lawful to the aforesaid Bailiff and Sworn-men and to their successors what that ever they be for year and time coming, him for to distress by all his goods and chatells, where that ever they may be found within the aforesaid town of Lydd, for the aforesaid ten marcs so to be arered [disposed] to the profit and use of all the Commons. And thus all these aforesaid matters were ended. The expenses about these matters done at the Lieutenant being here, cometh to 20s. ALSO expended at divers times in riding to London by William Smyth and by John Sarlys, And also expense made other divers times by Stephen Elys and by John Holdyrnesse and by Will. Bette for divers causes for the town, that is for to say—One cause was for to weet counsel in case the law would not serve Master Will. Hebbenge for to be vicar here, how we might then best sue for another.

And then our counsel gave us counsel first for to know how the law would rule first the foresaid Master Will. Hebbenge, And also the foresaid counsel counselled the town for to be well willed to the foresaid Master Will. as far forth as law would serve. The expense hereof and for divers times the foresaid persons being at London for to hear and know how the law would rule this matter, the expense hereof cometh to £3 18s. 6d. at many divers times expended. Sum total ... £23 11s. ½d. to this place.

FIRST and foremost for 4 certain persons cited to London at the procurement of the said Sir Andrew, And many more should have been cited if they might have been found. The expenses of 5 men and 5 horses being at London for the same matter for to keep their day there in the audience, and for counsel to be had for 10 days in winter being out, cometh to £4 13s. 4d.

Itm another time, what time our lord of Canterbury had sequestered the fruits of the church and then Sir Andrew laboured to have the sequestration broken; for the which matter for our discharge 4 men being at Maidstone before our lord of Canterbury, And for divers parchments that the said Sir Andrew had impeached us and other more of our town, The expense that time made for 4 men and 4 horses and for counsel to be had for to be excused of the said impeachment to our lord of Canterbury made cometh to 4 marks

Itm in the week afore Easter last past by the counsel of Sir Andrew an impeachment was made to our lord of Canterbury and to his counsel of divers causes upon William Smyth, William atte Water, John Holdyrnesse and John Sarlis: Of the which some were there afore our lord, and other 8 men with them to record a truth for the town. The expenses made at that time for 11 men and for their horses and for counsel there for to be had of Master Mule for to say (i.e., speak) there for them cometh to ... £4

Itm in divers entreaties the which the said Sir Andrew hath proffered to treat and not hold his promise at divers times made cometh the expense to ... 20s;

Sum ... £14 6s. 8d.

Itm the foresaid Sir Andrew procured that Will. Bette was arrested in London, as we suppose, for 2000 marks: for the Archdeacon's Official sware there that the Archdeacon of * Stering—Stirring; litigation in this case. It is a word used by Chaucer.

Canterbury nor he knew not thereof. The costs and expenses at that time made for counsel to be had for to have the fetters of iron off his legs and for to come out of prison cometh to ... 40s.

And the said imprisonment great harm and scaths of the town and to the said William.

The which William was there, for the foresaid Master William Hebbenge by a lawful proxy granted out of our Lord's Court of Canterbury and also for other divers matters for the town, and also great hindering and loss to the town and to the parties so unduly vexed and unduly accused and unduly imprisoned in harms and scaths above all these foresaid expenses in all the time that the town hath been thus unduly vexed to harms and scaths of £100.

SUM ... £14 6s. 8d.

Itm the sum of 10 scots gathered by the time in the which the said Sir Andrew dwelt here in Lydd and held here divers temporal farms, That is for to say for his cattle going and being upon the foresaid farm and upon his own purchased land from the year of the reign of King Harry the Sixth the 20th unto the 25th year of the said King next then following The sum of 10 Scots cometh to ... £24 17s.

Of the which sum the said Sir Andrew was taxed and set and required divers times to pay his part thereof—£5. Of the which £5, he never paid but 13s. 4d.

The Sum of the foresaid expenses above said without the Scots with holden cometh to ... £14 6s. 8d.

And the sum of the Scots so withholden cometh to £4 6s. 8d.

Which Scots so to the town due we might not compel to be paid for the great maintenance of divers persons being within us. And against due correction of the town.

Itm the foresaid expenses by Sir Andrew caused so to be made was never done without great maintenance being within us. And that is openly known.

And also the said maintainers that caused this good soo to be spende awaste say and inform the commons that the swornmen took a false quarrel, the which should desire

Master Hebbenge and no other for their vicar. Whereto we say and report us upon the bill of petition put to our lord of Canterbury, That we desired a vicar here resident and not only him, but if (unless the law would give it him), to the which we might not say nay by right if the law would give it him.

Itm we swornmen certify you commoners, That this foresaid good had never been spended nor withheld but by Sir Andrew and his maintenance being in this town: For we report us to the most part of you that we would never have gone out of town therefor had we not been compelled thereto that we must needs do it.

And if like you to hear the copy of the bill of petition that was put to our lord of Canterbury the copy is here ready.

MEM. that the day of the account there remains in the common chest ...£3 12s. 6d. together with debtors' payments.

Thomas Bocher and John Etherik and James Hevere certified on St. Katherine's day in the year 6 (Edward IV.) that Henry Bate sold a sow and a ewe that were not wholesome.

Also Henry, servant of Henry Bate, says that the aforesaid sow was not healthy.

Also the said butchers present that Andrew Bate uses the art (craft) of a butcher to the hurt and undoing of the artificers (i.e., butchers) there.

MEMORANDUM that Saturday before the feast of Trinity 7 Edward IV. came John Alchorn and released a suit of the peace again Richard Palmer; and the said Richard made oath the same day that hereafter he will do no harm to the body of the said John nor to any of his household, and to this the said Richard binds himself, his goods and chattels, his lands and tenements to conduct himself peaceably towards the aforesaid John.

Fol. 129a.

MEMORANDUM that 22 May 5 Edward IV., came before the Bailiff and Jurats of the town of Lydd Edmund Smyth and Isabella Smyth his wife and spontaneously swore to depart from the town of Lydd and not to approach the same town hereafter in future, unless it be on account of pilgrimage or on a voyage of our lord King, nor will they come within 7 miles of the said Town. And further they have sworn that they will do no ill or damage either in deed or words to the Bailiff or Jurats aforesaid or to the commonalty but will behave themselves well and faithfully as faithful subjects to the lord King and to his lieges.

3 August 6 Edward IV. came John Etherik before the Bailiff and Jurats and acknowledged that he owed Richard Harry £4 10s. sterling, to be paid 45s. 18 August next to come and 45s. at Michaelmas then next following, and upon this he binds his heirs and executors and all his goods by these presents, and all his lands and tenements within the town aforesaid.—And for default of payment the said John grants for himself his heirs and assigns that it shall be lawful for the aforesaid Richard Harry to enter upon his messuage, which he acquired of the aforesaid Richard to have himself in his former estate, the possession of the said John notwithstanding.

18 October 6 Edward IV.: William Benet brought into Court six silver dishes of the value of and appraised at 7s. 9½d., whereof is owed to the said William 6s. 10d. and so there rests in the hands of the said William 11d.

On St. Clement's day 6 Edward IV. Andrew Bate before the Bailiff and Jurats offered quarrel against John Sedele for that the said John said of the said Andrew that the same Andrew was an extortioner and "that (he) had driven away half Dengemersh." And the said John defends and says that he did not so say, but he said "that the said Andrew should drive men out of Dengemersh, as men said."

MEMORANDUM that John Aleweyn, John Bagot, James Harry and Thomas Moryng say that the said John Sedele said that Andrew Bate should 'a wroke' men out of the north end of Dengemersh as men said.

MEMORANDUM that on St. Clement's day 6 (Edward IV.) William Smyth informed the bailiff and Jurats that by his days the Abbot (Abbot of Battle) hath a Herd in the north end of Dengemersh, to keep his cattle for (from) hurting of the people there dwelling And by his faith if he might an had his good, without hurting of the cattle of Andrew Bate; and for because of his hurting he departed from the occupying of his lands and put his said lands to farm.

Roger Cokered also said that he by the overpressing of the cattle of the said Andrew he lost 12 kine and 6 mares which he might have saved if he had had his meadland which was destroyed by Andrew Bate, and dare not occupy his lands for the destruction of Andrew Bate's cattle.

Nicholas Howlyn saith that if he might (have) had his place and land in peace for hurting of Andrew's cattle he would not have sold it; And also his destruction in a quarter by the said Andrew's cattle caused him to sell his place 13s. 4d. better cheap than the said Andrew before proffered.

Laurence Garard and Agnes the wife of Th. Cliprank say that the said Thomas departed from Dengemersh by the hurt of Andrew Bate. And also he by his life said to Stephen Hoigge and the said Laurence, that he would never have departed from Dengemersh except (for) the over pressing of the said Andrew, and oft threatened and forced the said Thomas.

Thomas Smyth said that he would not have sold his lands at Dengemersh for double the silver if he might have occupied in peace, as neighbourhood required, and that by the cattle of Andrew Bate he was grievously 'hurtet,' through which he lost yearly his corn which was cause that he sold his land. Itm the said Andrew drew his mare into the mire which was the cause of her death. And also the said Andrew spake to the said Thomas and asked if he would sue him, and there he threatened him if he would sue him he would pay him at another place.

Thomas Shalwell also saith that the said Andrew hath hurt him offtime to the value of 20 nobles, and for his cause yearly hath forborne his sowing of his land and occupying of the same; and but if he might live in better peace than to for this time he will depart from Dengemersh.

Fol. 130a.

PLEAS of Jury and Assize before Henry de Stanton and his companions Justices in Eyre of our lord the King at Canterbury in co. Kent in the Octave of St. John the Baptist sixth year of the reign of K. Edward son of King Edward.

Kent. Stanton.

For the Barons of Lydd and Ingemareys.

The lord King has directed his writ to his justices here in these words: Edward by the grace of God King of England lord of Ireland and Duke of Aquitaine to his justices in Eyre in co. Kent, greeting, whereas lord E. of famous memory formerly King of England our father on the twelfth day of February in the eighteenth year of his reign by his charter granted to the Barons of Lydd and Ingemareys which are a member of the port of Romenhale (Romney) that they and their heirs dwelling there may for ever have the same liberties and free customs as the Barons of Romney and other Barons of the Cinque Ports have by the charters of the progenitors of the same our father Kings of England and confirmation of our said father; So that the Barons of Lydd and Ingemareys and their heirs find one ship for the aforesaid Barons of Romney in aid of the service of the said our father as often as they happened to be summoned to the service of our said father in his army: Which said charter we have confirmed for us and our heirs as in the said charter of our aforesaid father and our charter of such confirmation is more fully contained: And in the charters of the progenitors of our said father Kings of England and in the confirmation of our said father and of us amongst other things is contained, that the Barons of the Cinque Ports should not plead elsewhere except where they ought and where they were wont, viz., at Shipway, And although the said Barons of Lydd and Inge-mareys from the said twelfth day of February have always hitherto obeyed the Wardens of the said Ports for the time being as the rest of the barons of the same, and have freely used and enjoyed the liberties and free customs which the said Barons of Romney and other Barons of the aforesaid ports have enjoyed, without having been put on Assizes, juries, recognizances, or any inquisitions before the Justices or other ministers of our said father or of us without the ports aforesaid. Nevertheless you cause the said Barons of Lydd and Ingemareys to be placed on assizes, juries, recognizances, various inquisitions and to answer before you on the Eyre aforesaid for felonies and trespasses by them done or perpetrated in places within the aforesaid ports, as it is said, for which they are indited or cited; and as if they had not been of the aforesaid ports you cause them to be heavily distrained and by that occasion to be disturbed in many ways to the no little damage and vexation of the said barons and contrary to the tenor of the Charters and confirmation aforesaid. And because we wish (no) injury should be done the same Barons in the liberties so granted them by our aforesaid father and by us confirmed. We command you that having inspected the charter and confirmation aforesaid you permit the aforesaid Barons to use and enjoy the liberties

MEMORANDUM that on the day of St. Edward the Confessor in the year of our Lord 1466, Robert Lucas made an agreement with the Bailiff and Jurats and commoners of the town of Lydd to be parish clerk there and so to serve the parish under the form following, viz., the said Robert shall have paid him every quarter 20s. under the following form, viz., immediately after the quarter he with the common servant shall once ask for their salary, and the residue if any the said Robert shall have every quarter from the common house from the bailiff and Jurats: and further he shall have half the profit of all bells with other profits of the same office. And the same Robert if he wishes to withdraw from his office shall warn the aforesaid Bailiff and Jurats by the space of half a year before his withdrawal; and in like manner the said Bailiff and Jurats shall warn the said Robert.

11 January 7 Edward IV. came John Edryke, William Frode, and John Swan before the Bailiff and Jurats and entered into a recognizance each of them for himself in twenty pounds in the whole and solidly. To be paid the Bailiff and Jurats or their successors on the feast of Easter next to come under the following condition, viz. If John Edryk does not desire nor lust after the wife, daughter, nor maidservant of William Ferdygley of Lydd nor of any other man of the parish of Lydd then the present obligation and recognizance to be held of no effect, otherwise to remain in all its strength and virtue.

MEMORANDUM that 16 January 7 Edward IV. came John Andrewe bailiff of the liberty of the Abbot of Battle by instigation of Andrew Bate of Lydd and delivered a certain Distringam which follows in these words: I will distrain John Serlis of Lydd yeoman, and Thomas Caxton of the same yeoman, by all their lands, &c., and of the issues, &c. So that I have their bodies before the Justices of the lord King of Westminster in the Octave of St. Hilary to answer to John abbot of the monastery of St. Martin of Battle in a plea of trespass.

By the Sheriff of Kent to John Andrewe bailiff of the liberty of the abbot of Battle.

Fol. 180a.

MEMORANDUM that on 16 February 21 Edw. IV. Marion wife of John Herte, daughter of Henry Colyn jun. deceased, of Lydd, before the Bailiff and Jurats, before Thomas Gros then Bailiff there, John Kempe, Thomas Yonge, John Nycoll, Thomas Rotyn, Thomas Bagot, Thomas Shalwell, Thomas Danyell, John Alkyn and John Godfray, then Jurats of the Town of Lydd, acknowledged the following charter to be her voluntary deed: viz.—GRANT by John Herte and Marion his wife to Thomas Robyn of Lydd of all their portion of an acre and three roods of land in Lydd parish and in the tenure of the Court of Dengemersh three roods lying between land of the heirs of William Rolf towards the south, land of Richard Whyte towards the west and land of Thomas Danyell towards the northwest: half an acre lying between the high road towards the northwest, land of the heirs of William Rolf and land of Thomas Danyell towards the south (west?); and the other half acre between land of Richard Deryng towards the northeast and land of the said Thomas Robyn to the southeast: To hold for ever of the chief lords of the fee, with clause of warranty. Lydd 18 February (sic.), 21 Edw. IV. Witnesses (named).

Fol. 181.

MEMORANDUM that on St. Mary Magdalene's day it was appointed and agreed by the bailiff and Jurats that on St. Mary Magdalene's day yearly the commoners of Lydd should choose 12 commoners to assess the common scot together with the aforesaid Bailiff, viz. (ends.)

The names of them that were content the Bailiff and Jurats should set the scot for one year.

MEMORANDUM that on the Vigil of St. Matthew the Evangelist 7 Edward IV., Andrew Bate before the Bailiff Jurats and commonalty of Lydd said, That he never distressed western men at the Ness, nor none other in his name, but such fish as he there had he had by gift and money also of every man freegiving.

Laurence Holderness examined the third day of October in the year 7 (Edw. IV.) confessed before the Bailiff and Jurats that whiles he occupied for Bedell he distrained Westernmen by virtue of his office by the assignment of Andrew Bate. Also the said Laurence saith that the said Andrew charged him that he should not distress none indweller, nor never the said Laurence there distressed for any Cabons. But he said that if any man give any herring or fish to the said Andrew they gave it saying that they gave it freely, but for no duty. And so rehearsing also he confessed that some years he had a mille (1000) dry fish and one year 1400 fish, and where he lacked one year he distrained the same Westernmen for 2 years ensuing. Also he said he was assigned to distrain every boat of the westernmen of the said Andrew half a hundred fish or else 6d.

MEMORANDUM it is said that the 'fermour' of Dengemersh took of some Westernmen 200 dried whiting, of some 100 dried whiting, and compelled them to pay it against their will.

Itm that the said farmer should cause a Cabon or two to be taken by indenture of the Abbot in prejudice of the common right.

Itm that there be wasted and put away from Dengemersh 70 households and that there resort in these days to the stone not 8 men of Dengemersh to defend the King's enemies.

Itm that William Rolf by the means of Caxton offered for the manor of Dengemersh more money than Andrew paid therefor.

Also he offered all manner franchises and liberties to be reserved to the lord, as in wrecks, fishings, waifs, strays and the profits of the Cabons, &c.

Fol. 182.

MEMORANDUM that on St. Anne the Virgin's day 5 Edward IV., Agnes, relict of John Hunt, came before the Bailiff and Jurats of Lydd, and taking everything into account the town owes the said Agnes for the farm of a house for the great organs 13s. 4d., and she herself further gave the church of Lydd of her old debt 5s. 10d. for the soul of John Hunt and of Sir Roger Idlen: And the said Jurats granted that the church wardens shall pay the said Agnes the said 13s. 4d.

The same day Alexander Gray being in prison for that he fled to the church for a certain wound (inflicted) upon Simon Etherik, supposing that he would die of the same wound; which said Simon at this day is in good health for the space of 40 days that has elapsed since he was wounded, and sought no action against Alexander aforesaid: Therefore it is considered by the Bailiff and Jurats that the said Alexander be restored to his liberty at the church, and so he was this day, and departed quit.

MEMORANDUM that the 17 September in the night at 8 o'clock in the second year of the reign of Henry VII. King of England came one John Davy and entered the churchyard of All Saints, Lydd, and sought privilege of the church there and a coroner; and Laurence Gros, Bailiff there, as coroner examined the said John Davy for what cause he was there ...

Fol. 189a.

MEMORANDUM that Monday 14 March 24 Henry VI. James Ayllewyn of the town of Lydd was before Gervase Clifton Lieutenant of Dover being here at Lydd, and before William Melale then Bailiff of the same town and the Jurats of the same and there bound himself in 10 marcs of good and lawful money of England to keep well and faithfully thereafter all due customs and usages practised in and pertaining to the aforesaid town; and if he do not the aforesaid James wills and grants by these present that then it shall be lawful for the aforesaid Bailiff and Jurats and their successors there being Bailiff and Jurats there for the year to levy and distrain the said James by all his goods and chattels wherever they should be found or they can find them within the said town of Lydd for levying the aforesaid 10 marcs. And to all this he agreed.

MEMORANDUM that 5 January 2 Edward IV. came John Searlis and Laurence Holdernes and continued their matter till Saturday next, and that the security for distress shall stand in the same case which was standing: and if the said parties cannot agree by the said day that then on the Monday after the said Laurence shall deliver the distress to the said John Searlis.

4 March 4 Edward IV. (1464).

The same day Laurence Payn came before the Bailiff and Jurats of the town of Lydd and acknowledged he owed the town and commonalty of Lydd 23s. 4d. sterling of that money which the late Sir Andrew Aylewyn lent the town and commonalty.

The same day came Edward Elis and Richard Harry, feoffees of Stephen Harry, and promised that they would give 100s. and more of the money received and to be received from the tenement lately the said Stephen's to the church of Lydd, provided that the name of the said Stephen was published and rehearsed amongst the other benefactors of the same church every Sunday.

14 April 4 Edward IV.

William Benet confessed that he has in his hand 13s. 4d. of that money which lately Sir Andrew Aylewyn lent the town and commonalty. Also he says that there is in the hands of Laurence Holdernes 33s. 4d.

Received 16 April 4 Edward IV.—6s. 8d.

William Smyth confessed he has in his hands 6s. 8d. of the same money.

Fol. 183.

MEMORANDUM that it has been thus agreed between the Bailiff and Jurats of the town of Lydd on the one part and Robert Cokeram and Robert Alwey, owners of a certain ship called the Hayne of Lydd, viz., that the said Hayne should be thoroughly prepared for the service of our lord the King, and begin wages of the said ship on Monday 3 September 8 Henry VII., viz., every week 6s. 8d.

Fol. 189a.

MEMORANDUM that the 18 day of February 8 Edward IV., Agnes wife of Ralph Swetyng, daughter of Petronilla, late wife of John Rankystayle, formerly of Lydd, before the Bailiff and Jurats of Lydd, before William Benet ther Bailiff, William Stokham, John Breyggs, Henry Bate, John Kempe, Thomas Caxton, Thomas Gros, William Rolff, Stephen Hoygge, John Halway, Stephen Alchorn, Thomas Schalwell, William Elys, then Jurats of the Town of Lydd, acknowledged the charter following to be her voluntary deed, viz.:—

GRANT by Ralph Sweting and Agnes his wife to John Bregg and William Stokham of 2½ acres in Lydd and in the tenure of Alengton by lands of Andrew Bate and Laurence Holdernes towards the northeast, by lands of Thomas Bate, junior, and William Benet towards the southeast, by lands of Thomas Echingham, Knight, towards the southwest, and lands of William Bette and John Searlys towards the northwest: To hold for ever of the chief lords of the fee, &c.: with clause of warranty. Lydd, 12 February 8 Edward IV.

Witnesses (named).

Fol. 135.

To all christian people to whom this present writing shall come, I, J.P., chaplain send greetings in our Lord everlasting. And because it is meritorious and needful for every one to bear testimony to the truth, especially in causes that are doubtful, that no one be deceived or defrauded. That is that I the aforesaid J.P. being specially required and moved by love for the whole truth, declare by the present writing, that a certain Cristina B. late relict of J.B. formerly of M. at the time of her death when I was present and carrying out her last requests, viz.:—That the parish chaplain of M. aforesaid has had of the goods and chattels of the said Cristina 6d., and each one of her god-children 4d., and Juliane F. has had a cloth, and that Margareta her daughter has had her cow, to go on a Pilgrimage as far as Walsingham. Furthermore all the residue of her good and chattels, after disposal to such persons as they are due, are remaining in the hands of her two daughters M. and A., equally between them divided. In proof of the above, my seal is affixed. Dated the day and year, etc. (sic.)

Wherefore your said beseecher for charity prayeth for as much as he hath no remedy in the Premises because of the Common Law. That it may please the notable wisdom and discretion by way of very righteousness and . . . to direct your warrant of 'Sub Poena' into the said J. S. that he upon certain pain of money appear before you at a certain day by your discretion to him to be limited to answer in the Premises, and in the management upon the Testament of the said H.B., as of him is recorded by right of the Common Law who respite and pardon as right and good conscience asketh and requireth.

†"The clapper, which is technically divided into the 'ball,' or hammer, and the 'flight,' or shaft, is fastened into the crown of the bell by an iron staple; anciently, however, thongs of white leather, made from horse-hide, were used. These were known as bawdriks or bawtries, and since the frequent swinging of the clapper comparatively soon wore them through, the purchase of new ones is an item not seldom found in churchwardens' accounts. These thongs are mentioned, under the name of 'baudricks,' in the accounts of the churchwardens of Newbury, Berkshire."—From "A Book on Bells." Rev. C. S. Tyack.

‡ "On Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday (in Holy Week) you shall come," says a XIVth century writer, "to Matins, which we call tenebrae." At this service a triangular candle-stick with 25 candles was placed in the choir. This candle-stand was called in England the "tenebrae," or Lenten "herse," and it is so named in many church accounts. It was one of the ornaments which had to be paid for by the parish, and it was sometimes known as the "Judas candle."
